GAME #6

VS

Alan Davidson Oval, Wyoming

COSIER + COTTIER, BUT CHRIS-LESS

After the disappointment of last weekend's result, Wyoming were ready to put that ugly game behind them and concentrate on playing football again. The smaller confines of Alan Davidson Oval 2 seemed a perfect way for the team to get a bit cosier and hopefully get their mojo back. Cottier made a welcomed returned with his back on the mend but Ian (hopes to return next week from his foot injury) and Chris (two of his sons had games in Sydney) were omissions.

FORDO: This week's tosser / GREGG either stretching or praying the invisible sniper stays away this time.

MEADY stops an early threat.

MENACING MEADY

There wasn't much to separate the two teams. One of their players would've liked further separation though when he went up against Meady. Shoulder to shoulder up the sideline, the poor bloke landed badly and the initial diagnosis was a dislocated shoulder or broken collarbone. Hope you make a speedy recovery mate. Special kudos to Julia in coming to his aide.

THOSE DARN REDS

After a few minutes of delay, the game resumed. Earlier, Meady and Gregg had made outstanding last man efforts to prevent Terrigal from scoring but eventually, the Where's Wally crew drew first blood with a quality shot...

SCURI STRIKES BACK !!

At the other end, Andy's heavy left foot was finding it difficult to adjust to the smaller field with several crosses going well past the intended target. His closest effort was an intended cross that veered towards the base of the crossbar instead. It didn't have the sting on it to beat the keeper though. Fordo continues to shine at his preferred position on the right flank. He fueled several chances. His best was swerving past two players but his final touch sent the ball over the goalline. The ref called a corner thinking it had surely taken a deflection but Fordo demonstrated his integrity by informing the ref that it was a Terrigal goal kick due to a blundered shot. Cottier and Luca took a few ambitious shots from far out but nothing was troubling their keeper until Dave sent Brad on a great run down the right side and cut the ball through to Luca who tapped it with precision into the right edge of the goalmouth. Game on baby!!

SECOND HALF WOES

Flanno had arrived just before halftime and was on his best behaviour today. He bolstered the center midfield with more attacking options, particularly with those long balls he excels at. Cottier pushed up into a striker position and worked hard but couldn't quite get that winning touch. Andy managed a few shots, including one that impressed Meady as it stayed low for once. Stew was a menace to the opposition and busted through the defenders on several occasions. Luca didn't stop chasing the ball all game. He used his head to varying levels of success though. On the lower end of the spectrum, was the accidental head clash with a Terrigal defender - thankfully he passed the concussion test; On the plus side, he almost netted his second by connecting that good looking noggin to one Andy's corners.

AARON the master of containing the bobble.

LUCA uses his noggin in the right way this time !

THROW-IN TANTIES

Unfortunately the Tigers weren't looking likely to find the winner and Terrigal weren't having much luck either, particularly when they had to contend with the never shy Nigel Mead. It had been a game without animosity, the only tantrum occurring when Burkey threw the ball away after the ref ruled against him winning the throw-in. Who knows, he may've foul-thrown it anyway like he did in the first half - another case of beer, right??

WYOMING hopeful that this would TERRIGAL's last shot.

THE KILLER BLOWS

A draw was looking likely, a fair result ... and then, with four minutes to go, a seemingly offside play saw Terrigal take the lead. Wyoming fought on desperate for an equaliser but another counter by Terrigal ended with their third goal. A heartbreaking finish, sadly the football gods can be cruel sometimes --- particularly on Field 2 where we haven't won a game for two years.

TERRIGAL takes the lead despite an offside play.

Nevertheless, the other results have kept us in the Top 4 by the slimmest of margins. We regroup and take on Berkeley Vale next ... our last opponent in the first full cycle of the competition.

DIRTY SHIRTS

Meady not only put his body on the line throughout the game but also his wardrobe. The three points today sees him jump to the top of the pointscore. Brad picked up the 2pts but there were no worthy contenders for the remaining point.
